OYSTER BAY IS UP IN ARMS AGAINST STARR'S PROJECT.

Strong Protest Hade to the Town Board at the Hearing Upon the Application-W. T. Cox Says Stary Intends to Establish Permanent Sand Digging Plant at the Bluff. OYSTER BAY, L. I., Oct. 6 .- The Town Board gave another hearing this afternoon to the residents of Oyster Bay who are opposing the granting of a permit to Walter D. Starr for the erection of a dock for commercial purposes" in front of the property recently purchased by him near Cooper's Biuff. Congressman Townsend Boudder represented the applicant and W. T. Cox and Alfred Ely appeared for residents who are opposing the application. Lawyer Joseph Steinert disputed the right of the Town Board to control the water front. He said that the residents of Oyster Bay would be foolish to accept the decision of the Town Board on the matter pending, as the board had no power to grant the requested permission, and if they did

Lawyer Wilmot T. Cox said it was inconcelvable that the Town Board should consent to grant the application in the face of everwhelming opposition. He attacked Congressman Soudder who more than once jumped o his feet and protested angrily that Cox was going beyond all bounds. Supervisor Jones pounded the desk vigorously and sucpeeded in restoring quiet. Congressman Scudder said that the Town Board had again and

Mr. Murdock presented a long list of signers of a petition against the dook, and the names were ordered placed on the records. Congressinan Scudder said that Mr. Murdock had endeavored unsuccessfully to obtain certain riparian rights from the Town Board, and that he had then gone to Albany and obtained the desired grant despite the hoard. Murdock defended himself vigorously and then handed his list of objectors to the Town Clerk who read them off. Among the names were those of J. Rogers Maxwell, Robert A. Shaw, Percy Chubb, F. R. Coudert, F. R. Coudert, F. R. Coudert, H. A. P. Montaigne, Clinton L. Rossiter, Howard Gould, F. B. Pratt and Edward R. Ladew.

Mr Murdock then went on to expose the method of excavating sand for commercial purposes, and afterward made a bitter attack upon Congressman Scudder for acting as counsel in such a case. Tremendous applause greeted Mr. Murdock's remarks. Lawyer Cox tried to force Mr. Scudder to state the specific jurposes of the application and the exact use to be made of the dock, saying that Mr. Scudder had dodged the issue. Mr. Scudder objected to this statement. Mr. Cox persisted and asked Mr. Scudder to define the term "commercial purposes" for which the application said the dock was to be used.

Mr. Scudder replied that the board had never before asked an applicant what use he intended to make of a trojected dock, and that sinch amater was one's private business and that he considered such a question impertinent. At this there was a murmur of protest from the audience whereupon Mr. Scudder in protest from the audience whereupon mr. to Produce the Play Pending Decision. STRACUSE, Oct. 6.—Pending a decision in the "Vanity Fair" injunction case, now on trial in this city, the Gertrude Coghlan Company may be permitted to produce the play. In the United States Court to-day attorneys for the defence asked if the injunction could for the defence asked if the injunction could not be modified so that the company could go on with the production on giving a bond to protect the plaintiff providing he finally succeeded. Judge Wallace said that it was not unlikely that he would decide to modify the stay so that the production could be given in case a bond of $100 would be put up for each performance. It was ordered that briefs be submitted within five days.

Affidavits were to-day read from various members of the Coghian Company showing that many of them had never even seen the Fiske play, and that they had each been instructed to play their respective parts in an entirely original manner. entirely original manner.

PATHER CONVERSE IN OHIO. The Episcopal Priest Who Disappeared From

Boston Visiting His Mother. Boston, Oct. 6.-A despatch was received here to-day from Zanesville, Ohlo, saying that the Rev. Father Duncan Converse, who mysteriously disappeared from the house of the Society of St. John the Evangelist in this city several weeks ago, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Elizaweeks ago, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Converse of that city. Father Converse declined to discuss in any way the reasons for his withdrawal from the brotherhood, saying it is purely a personal matter. He gave the information that he was still in full communication with the Episcopal Church. Father Field, who is at the head of the local branch of the society, is very reticent about Father Converse's departure. He simply said:

Brother Converse has ceased to reside with other Converse has ceased to reside with us. We regard his disappearance as a matter of no concern to the outside world."

MOVEMENT OF SILVER BULLION.

$15,000,000 Worth Passes Through El Pase in Six Weeks for Exportation to the Orient. EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 6.-The advance in the price of silver bullion and the exportation of great quantities of Mexican silver dollars to the Orient during the past few weeks have caused an advance in Mexican money. The equity jurisdiction or any greater jurisdiction caused an advance in Mexican money. The banks in El Paso are paying 49% cents now and another advance is expected. During the past six weeks there has been over $15,000,000 in silver shipped through this city by express en route to the Orient, and almost every west-bound train now carries from $100,000 to $500,000 worth. The reason of this sudden exportation of silver has not been explained, but the supposition is that the money is needed for the increased trade of China and the Oriental islands.

NOTES OF LEGAL EVENTS.

On Monday the Court of Appeals convened Albany for its autumn session, and on Tuesday it handed down fifty-three decisions, comthirty-two affirmances, seventeer reversals and four modifications. With the additional force of the three Supreme Court Justices now assigned to duty there the Court is making good progress with its work and it will probably be in a position to order a new calendar to be made up for the beginning of the year 1901. A careful estimate indicates that there will be not far from 800 cases on such calendar. Among the more important decisions of Tuesday was that in the case of The People ex rel. Percival vs. Cram, which involved the power of the Civil Service Commission to restrict the removal of a public officer by means of a rule designed for that purpose, in the absence of any such restriction in the State Civil Service law as that which the rule sought to establish. The Court of Appeals holds, as we understand it, that in the case of an officer whose term is not fixed by statute the right to remove him at the pleasure of the appointing power can be limited only by the Legislature; and that the Legislature cannot delegate to the Civil Service Commission any authority to establish or enforce a rule hindering the exercise of the right of removal.

The decision in the Percival case turned largely upon the application of section 8 of article X. of the State Constitution, which provides as follows: "When the duration of any office is not provided by this Constitution it may be declared by law, and if not so declared. such office shall be held during the pleasure of the authority making the appointment." Percival was a dockmaster assigned to act as superintendent of docks. The Court of Appeals deems his position to be within the purview of this provision of the Constitution, because it is an office the duration of which is not fixed either by the Constitution itself or any statute. This gives the Board of Docks the power to remove him at pleasure. It was contended that the attempted exercise of this power was ineffectual in law, because the board omitted to comply with rule 42 of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, which provides that no removal of any person in the classified civil service of the city of New York shall be valid unless and until a statement of the causes of such removal shall be filed with the con m ston and a copy furnished to the person sought to be removed, nor until said person has been afforded an opportunity to present an explanation in writing. The Court of Appeals does not deny that the Legislature might require all this; but it does negative the power of the Civil Service Commission to do so, in the case of such a public officer as Percival. Apropos of this decision, it is worthy of note that such ardent civil service reformer as Col. Silas W. Burt "admits a belief that it is unwise to hamper the appointing power too much: there should be a reasonably free hand allowed in making removals,"

The decision of the Court of Appeals that the Corporation Counsel of the city of New York has no power to allow judgment to be taken against the municipality by consent, in compromise of claims against the city, without the approval of the Comptroller, terminates a long and bitter controversy. The result was reached by a vote of 4 to 8, thus indicating that the question was one very fairly open to discussion and exonerating Mr. Whalen from any just blame in raising it. On the other hand, Mr. Coler naturally rejoices at the outcome of the contest, which he is reported to have carried on at his own expense. If this is true he ought in some way to be reimbursed. The majority opinion in the Court of Appeals is written by Judge Haight "If it had been intended." he says, "to give the Corporation Counsel power to compromise claims rejected by the Comptroller, without his knowledge or consent, then the Corporation Counsel would, in effect, become the superior of the Comptroller, for all of the Comptroller's determinations with reference to the audit of claims would be subject to review by the Corporation Counsel. Clearly this was not intended." We think that Judge Haight's reasoning will command general

The decision of Mr. Justice Lambert of the Eighth Judicial District, in the case of The People against the Buffalo Fish Company, has just been affirmed by the Court of Appeals This was a prosecution under the game laws interest to New York fishermen and sportsmen. The suit was brought to recover penalties under the statute on the ground that the defendant corporation had in its possession, during the close season in this State, certain pike, pickerel and muskallonge, contrary to aw. The Buffalo Fish Company admitted having possession of the fish at the time alleged, but contended that it was lawfully entitled so to do, inasmuch as the fish had been caught in the Canadian province of Manitoba and were imported into the United States upon payment to the national Government of the tariff duty of a quarter of a cent per pound. This defence was adjudged to be sufficient by Mr. Justice Lambert upon the ground that to prohibit the defendant from possessing such imported fish would be to interfere with the power of Congress to regulate commerce with foreign countries. The Judge pointed out that while the State might undoubtedly prescribe the times and conditions of catching and killing wild animals or fish, it could not in the exercise of that power enact laws which in effect prohibit interstate and foreign commerce.

The Phi Delta Phi Society is an organization of lawyers which has its origin among the students of the various law schools of the country, and possesses numerous branches or chapters in many different cities of the Union. The graduate members in New York hold monthly meetings here in the autumn and winter season. usually at the Hotel Marlborough, and are entertained after dinner by speeches on legal topics by distinguished members of the legal profession. At the meeting to-morrow evening Mr Justice Woodward of the Supreme Court is to deliver an address on the legal right of a State to limit the suffrage, and it is expected that he will discuss the Constitutional amendment recently adopted in North Carolina for the purpose of depriving the negroes of the right to vote. Judge Woodward is a resident of Jamestown, in Chautauqua county, but he s now sitting as one of the Justices of the Appellate Division in Brooklyn. As a member of that court, a few years ago, he wrote an opinion which had the effect of checking to a great extent the enactment of special statutes in this State, in the deceptive guise of general

The difference of opinion between the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in this judicial department and the Appellate Division in Brooklyn in reference to the jurisdiction of the Municipal Courts established by the Greater New York Charter has been resolved by the Court of Appeals in opposition to the view entertained by the Appellate Judges here. The revised Constitution of 1894 provides that the Legislature "shall not hereafter confer upon any inferior or local court of its creation any equity jurisdiction or any greater jurisdiction in other respects than is conferred upon County Courts' by or under the judiciary article. It was contended and held here that this rendered invalid those provisions of the Charter which assume to give to the Municipal Courts jurisdiction to entertain suits against non-residents of the city of New York and foreign corporations. In Brocklyn, on the other hand, it was maintained that insamuch as Justices of the Peace possessed such jurisdiction under some circumstances, the framers of the Constitution could hardly have intended to prevent the Legisluture from creating inferior local courts whose powers should be equal to those exercised by such officers.

The Municipal Courts established by the Greater New York Charter have proved useful tribunals, which appear to give general satisfaction. In reviewing their decisions, however, the Appellate Courts have heretofore been confined to the consideration of alleged errors of law and could be consideration of alleged errors. MISER HOWIE SPENT ONLY NINETY CENTS A WEEK FOR FOOD.

Passed Greater Part of His Time is a Miserable Room for Which He Paid $1.50 a Week, Watching Over the Trunk Which Contained $90,000-Nine Bags of Coin. In the opinion of many who knew him, James Howle, the miser, who died in the New Rochelle Hospital on Friday, leaving a fortune of $90,000, starved himself to death by gradual, but not easy stages. The self-denial he practised would have been all the harder for the average man because there was always during the last few years no less than $3,000 in coin within reach. To Howie this money was no temptation. Howie called himself a gardener, but he was eally an unskilled man-of-all-work. He worked mostly at sodding and grass-cutting. He was 76 years old. The immediate cause death was malaria. When the malady attacked him he was so thin and weak that he could not resist it. During the last six years of his life he made the Hotel Tavern, which is in Lawton street, New Rochelle, his home. The place is a semi-charitable institution. number of wealthy citizens of the village maintain it when it doesn't maintain itself. The object of the institution is to provide shelter for deserving poor men, away from the influence of liquor, for no intoxicating drinks are sold in the place. occupied a rear room on the units moor, paying $1.50 a week for it. It is one of a number which are divided off by partitions. The partitions fall far short of reaching the ceiling. In order to prevent the possibility of one of the occupants of those rooms reaching over and robbing his neighbor, wire screens have been spread from the tops of the partitions to the ceiling. The walls are not plastered in this room the miser spent nearly all his time, going out only when an opportunity for making a dollar presented itself.

Howe was a verefarian, but apparently not because of any dislike for meat. Every drawer in the bureau in his room its still filled with apples, because no new tenant for Howie's room has yet presented himself. The apples might convey to the casual visitor the idea that the occurant had accepted the Schiller theory of benefiting his lungs, for the apples are rotten enough, but Howie's known to have hadsound lunas. These apples were the Scotchman's trincipal article of food. On rare occasions he allowed himself rolls and coffee, but never in the morning. In the morning, he always said, he could not eat. There were times at moon, too, when he said he did not care for food. Ernest Bonner, the manager of the tavern, said vesterday that Howie's living expenses, outside of his room rent, never exceeded 50 cents a week. In some other respects Howie was very peculiar He always wors a Scotch cap. The assertion can stand without qualification, because they were warrent of order to go the hourded wealth in his trunk. What he must have suffered for fear of losing it is also indicated, because until quite recently he had no secure place to put it, but kept it in a satchel of his will at the men around him were all such as had been forged to go to the tavern by dire necessity could not have added to his comfort. About two weeks are he relieved his mind a little in this particular—he bought a strongly built modern trunk. In this trunk nine bags of onin, gold and silver, were found after Howie's death, seven sa

After being in play since the fall of 1897 the cup offered for semi-annual competition on the public links at Van Cortlandt Park by Giovanni P. Morosini was won out yesterday by H. E. Brown, the winner when it was first played for. Yesierday's field was the largest that ever started for the trophy and the scoring was also the best on the records. Brown, when he first won, made 103, while yesterday he scored 89. The improvement among the others was equally as marked. The conditions made the event open to all amateurs, the competition to be at eighteen holes medal play, without handicap, the cup to go to whoever wen it twice. In the early days of the competition the entries were received by The Sun, which also managed the play, but this has not been necessary since the appointment of a professional at the links. Yesterday's play was managed by Vol Flood, who had the course in fine shape. The winners, in the order named, were H. E. Brown, Paul C'Connor, W. de La Rue Anderson, P. Sullivan, C. G. Rowe and H. E. Hot Springs, Va., Get. 6.—H. M. Forrest of the Philadelphia country Club won the Virginia cup in the Hot Springs tournament this afternoon, by detenting L. L. Harban of the Columbia Club, Washington, I up in thirty-seven holes. It was the closest match that has ever been played on the links here, and the excitement was great. Although Forrest is the better all-round Hayer, most of the wagers were on Harban, for with powerful wrists and arms, it was thought his chances on thirty-six holes would be favorable to success. As it turned out, there was little difference in results between the two men, and at the end of the eighteenth hole this morning the score stood, harban I up. Starting with good drives this afternoon, Harban won the nineteenth and twentieth, making him 3 up, the next went

How it breaks up Colds.

Dr. Humphreys' famous Specific "Seventy-seven" breaks up a Cold by restoring the checked circulation, known by a chill or chilly feeling, the first sign of a Cold, it starts the blood coursing through the veins and at once breaks up the Cold.

"77" acts directly upon the disease, without exciting disease or disorder in any other part of the system.

"77" cures thoroughly; no bad after effects; no stuffy head; no Catarrh; no sensitive throat; no prostration, vigor and strength being sustained during the attack. "Seventy-seven" consists of a small vial of pleasant pellets, fits the vest pocket,
